

Tressa Kelly is the Compliance Director for Home State Insurance Group, a Texas based group of auto insurance companies licensed in more than 20 states. A member of the Texas Bar, Tressa also oversees a book of direct litigation for the Group. Prior to entering the legal and compliance arena with Home State in 2011, Tressa has been fortunate to have held a variety of administrative and research roles with private, public, and governmental organizations.

A native of a small town in Northern Wisconsin, she earned her B.A. from the University of Texas – Dallas, and her law degree from the University of Missouri. As a former Army Brat, Georgia is the eighth state Tressa has called home since moving to Savannah full time in 2018. She and her husband, Steve, are currently preparing for a move to Central Virginia, where she is looking forward to continuing to foster cats and kittens, spending time outdoors in the Blue Ridge mountains, and resuming post-pandemic travel and live music shows.
